Taj Mahal

E. Weston Dkhar

Ko maw marble ka jingphohsniew !
Ko Taj Mahal kajingbhabriew !
Pha ieng sakhi lyngba ki rta,
Hapoh nongbah donnam Agra !
Shaphang jingieit ba jylliew sat !
Sha thlong ummat bym lah ban twad !

Jingieit nylla b'u briew u sliang,
Katba nang slem katta nang thiang ;
La jingkylla ki wan ki leit ;
Jur jingpynshoi nang skhem lyngngeit :
Jingïap runar ka pharia phret,
Jingieit nylla horkit kam lwet.

Ko Taj Mahal sakhi phyl la,
Jingieit batlem bym ju kylla ;
Ha pyrthei sngi slem ban iakhlad,
Jingim ka pdem ummat bym rngad ;
Jingïap ka loit ki syrdoh sat,
Ha ka kam don ka jingiakhlad.

Ko Taj' Mahal pha ieng mawsiang,
Jingieit jylliew bad ba iai thiang:
Ba soskular palong ka sliang:,
Duwan bym lah ban ïaid kynriang :

To sei khubor batlem bathiang,
Ia jingieit bneng b'u briew u sliang.

Kynroh marble ummat bad snam,
Ki ngam jylliew, jabieng ki sam ;
Namar jingieit ba jylliew tam-
Haja, ki mraw ki ud ki iam !
Namar jingieit ba kthang tym pang-
Ki duh ei khoit -jingieit kyntang ?

Ko Taj Mahal marble jingphohsniew,
Katno jingieit ka ngam jylliew ?
Pha sañ ka bneng ha ka pyrthei-
Bad dujok ding ba ishyrkhei !
Namar jingieit nylla b'la khlei-
Ki duh jingieit ki kylla dpei !

Ko Taj to kren bad to iai kren,
Ia jingieit bneng bym lah ban len ;
Lyngba ki sur ki dak bym iap,
Khlem jingthoh bria ne jingarsap ;
To klik i'u briew ba un sngewthuh.
Balei dohnud jong u ka pluh !

My Sister - With Love

Oh ! myriads of friends I've met
Some, a-handshake ; and few
My heart admires. And
The choosen one is 'you'
Those by-gone days; Memories
When recollected afresh,
Cut 'thro' deep in my heart
The ups and downs
The fun and frolics
The tales you tell with jest.
Now memories of pain and tears
How often, I remember you,
Like a mirage - I run for thee
Like the mist you faded away
Like a flash of lightning,
That peeps through the hazy-sky
The next second your'e gone
Not a thought to lose you.
Yet suddenly you're called away
Now that you're gone, only
Memories bring us together again.
Thank God!
For a wonderful Sister
it opened my eyes to see
How precious & true you're
Good Bye — White Rose of Modesty.

(Dedicated to my beloved sister Reality Lanong – By Rimika Lanong)

To You My Friend

Heart wrenching into the steally night
Awake and obscure, to the world around
Time and again, thoughts trickle by.
My longing heart, came weariness
And awoken by the plain truth of life.

For once, I say, Is she not there?
Thoughts linger on recounting her love
Love that once broke open my heart
Her charm, mesmerizing my being
Soft and tender her contour remain.
Sweet and cute, will I see her again,
her smile, whisperly lovely timid voice,
Creating for sure a romantic impact
It is love, I'm sure here sisterly love
Is she there, I seigh with tears.

O ! Cheerfur Spirit

My friend, unseen - thou art gone.
Leaving fond memories of Love and Joy.
For us to cherish, by thy name,
Yet, painful when, 'Reality' downs.
Images of life, filled with promise
Laughter that drown sorrows often.
Nature adorning thee, the gift of smile
Fragrance spreaded swiftly around thy life
For thy spirit, free like a bird; Yet.
Like the gentle flow of stream in spring.
Like the sweet soothing sound of music to comfort and cheer a lonely heart.

In full bloom, thou art called to a life
My parting so unreal, as one reminisce;
For Cherubic, thy contours were yesterday,
And today, you are gone, O! Happy Spirit.

'Reality': Your Name Well Define

Is 'nt it, so well define, of the 'NAME' that you wear?
That life is a dream, and we're all made to stare.
Death! an enigma indeed, for my reason had fail,
But not for you who have outlived this mortal's tale.

I count it a truth, not a mere fantasy,
That the dead can see better, life's reality.

While on assignment out here, you are indifferent to asked,
But with 'DEAD'! the answer you've found it at last.
To you who had been choosen, the spirits dare to come,
To snap you away from the nightmare, we still succumb;
Like an Angel, compare to ten thousand wisemen,
Dreams and nightmares to your power now they bend.

High, up the altar, with the maker's eyes you shine,
A reward so early, when the aged trod to climb;
A song of your short dream, we will ever sing,
And your pleasant lores we continue, till we finally meet again.

A Rose On My Desk

There sits atop my desk a white rose
A great silken blossom larger than my open palm
Sustained by something so ever simple as clear
Fresh water, unperturbed in a slender fluted glass.

The white rose stands for pure love, she said.
My love, last night, said as we ate supper,
I don't know what it means.

And it sits there my White rose, unmoving and steadfast for Weeks, months! I know because I have counted the days -
Since she found out
My love, months ago, that I kissed your mind.

It has quietly sat there, my
White rose, through the storm front:
The wronged love,
The gut-wrenching search for soul-truth.
The secret, unrepentant conviction.

And now, my poor .
White rose, now, in the Eye of my storm, in the Deceiving calm -
Will you still be there,
When the consequences of my Decision come to pass?

Do you know what the yellow rose stands for? She asked.
My, last night, asked as we ate supper.

It stands for friendship, I said
And ate, and
Stared at the vibrant, young yellow
Rose on the table, between us.

Fate

I put on a fake smile
Pretending to be so glad
They can't see, now I am good as mad

I Say to all, that everything is so fine.
But nobody has tried to read these eyes of mine.

Hiding all the pain, the miseries, that knows no bound
Of losing someone, of whom you are found.

I wish I had some one to share these feeling with, as the times slowly tick.
But all I have is my dark shadow as I slowly grow sick.

Fate, you have played such a big joke on me.
You have shown me the door, but threw away the key.

I wish I could pour out my heart, and express all my feelings before it's too late.
Because I know soon on my face, will be closed the gate;
And I will have not one but to blame my hopeless fate.
